L. C. Q. LAMAR DEAD.

A Vacancy Caused on the Supreme Court Bench.

DEATH CAME VERY SUDDEN.

He Had Been Ailing for Some Time, but Appeared to Be Gradually Improving. Seized with a Sudden Pain in the Heart. He Expires in Less Than an Hour—Biography of His Eventful Life.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 24.—Justice L. Q. Lamar died here at 8:50 o'clock yesterday evening. It is a terrible shock to the community. The death was sudden in the extreme, for although he has been ailing for some time, Justice Lamar appeared to be gradually gaining in health. He came from Washington to Macon about a month ago and has been visiting at the residence of Mr. W. H. Virgin, in Vineville, a suburb of this city.

L. Q. C. LAMAR.

Yesterday afternoon at about 8 o'clock, Justice Lamar took his overcoat, intending to go to the city, but was met at the door by a friend, Dr. Llewellyn, with whom he returned to the sitting room. At that time and during all the afternoon he was in good spirits and at dinner, at 6:50 in the evening, he seemed to have a good appetite. Dr. Llewellyn left the house about 8 o'clock, and a few minutes later the justice was seized with violent pains in the heart and died at the hour mentioned.

Bright's disease with a gurgling pectoris was the direct cause of Judge Lamar's death and is given by the physicians of being the chief complication in the case.

Justice Lamar came into the city yesterday afternoon and called at the office of Mr. R. E. Pardue, where he conversed pleasantly on general topics. He was accompanied by Dr. Llewellyn on his return to the residence of Mr. W. H. Virgin, who married Mr. Lamar's daughter.

The attack was very severe while it lasted and the physician, Dr. A. H. Parker, who had been in attendance, arrived only a few minutes before death. At this time Justice Lamar was unconscious and beyond medical aid. Restoratives were at once administered, but were entirely without avail. He died with his head on Mr. Virgin's hands and apparently without pain; the spasm having passed off at that time.

Biographical.

With the passing away of Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court Lincius Quintus Cincinnatus Lamar contemporaneous political history loses one of its most unique figures.

Mr. Lamar was noted in Washington, where the best years of his life were spent, for his absentmindedness and eccentricities, no less than for his genial nature and charming manners. Every trait of his character was inherited. His father, for whom the dead associate justice was named, had his unusual cognomen selected for him by an eccentric brother of his mother, who insisted upon naming her children after her favorite historical heroes.

Lamar, the elder, was a lawyer, a compiler and editor of legal decisions, etc., a judge, a host of unbounded hospitality and an eloquent speaker, but withal a man of many little eccentricities which seemed to be the children of a high and by some it is believed an overwrought artistic temperament. He was attacked by dyspepsia a couple of years before his death. The accompanying cerebral fever made Mr. Lamar delirious at times, and while suffering from the temporary mental aberration thus induced he committed suicide.

It is therefore not difficult, it will be observed, to account for the many little eccentricities which served rather to lend a charm to the unique personality of the dead justice. He seemed to have been but a composite picture of his father and the members of his paternal grandmother's family.

Like Justice Lamar's personality, his public career was remarkable. He comes of one of the oldest families in Georgia. He was born in Putnam county in 1825, and after his father's deplored death was taken to Oxford, Miss., where his education may be said to have begun. After acquiring all that was to be learned in the Oxford schools young Lamar was sent to Emory college in Georgia. He graduated in 1845, at once commenced the study of law in Macon, Ga., and was admitted to the bar two years later.

The practice of law in a small town and the attendant struggles for the "root of all evil" seemed to fail to satisfy the young attorney, whose inclinations were all toward study, and whose keen analytical sense was only wasted on the trifling cases which were usually intrusted to a beginner.

Mr. Lamar, after two years of work, which was eminently unsatisfactory and uncongenial to himself, accepted a position as adjunct professor of mathematics in the University of Mississippi.

Cold, dry figures were no more to his liking than petty legal cases, and after a year at the university, his reputation as an analytical adviser and eloquent advocate having preceded him, Mr. Lamar removed to Covington, Ga., and resumed the practice of the law. Important cases were given him, and his fame spreading rapidly in his adopted country the people in 1853 elected him to represent them in the state legislature.

This may be said to have been the beginning of Mr. Lamar's public career, and it came dangerously near being the end, for small politics was not to his liking either, and he gave it up in disgust and in 1854 moved back to Mississippi, locating on a plantation which he owned in Lafayette. Here Mr. Lamar had his first opportunity since attaining manhood to pursue to the full his studies in intricate legal literature.

The citizens of Mississippi were unwilling to permit their brilliant young advocate to waste his ability on a plantation, and in 1856 he was elected to congress as a Democrat. He served from 1857 to 1860.

Things had reached such a pass then that every public officer had to decide between the Union and the Confederacy.

Mr. Lamar therefore resigned his seat in congress to become a member of the Mississippi session convention, in which body he played an important part.

When hostilities began Mr. Lamar accepted a commission as lieutenant colonel of the Nineteenth Mississippi regiment. He was afterward promoted to the colonelcy, and up to the day of his death the people of his home town, Oxford, almost always referred to him as Colonel Lamar and seldom as senator or judge. His health compelling his retirement from active service in the field, Mr. Lamar was sent as a Confederate commissioner to Russia. His mission, as history relates, failed of its purpose.

When the war closed he went back to the University of Mississippi, where he became professor of political economy and social science in 1860, and was given the chair of law a year later. He then once more resumed his practice at the bar, which he continued until he was elected to congress in 1872. He was re-elected in 1874 and in 1875 was chosen by the legislature as one of the representatives of his adopted state in the United States senate. He remained in the senate until March 4, 1885, when he accepted the portfolio of secretary of the interior tendered him by President Cleveland.

On Dec. 6, 1887, Mr. Cleveland sent to the senate the name of L. Q. C. Lamar to be associate justice of the United States supreme court, vice Justice Woods, deceased. After some delay the nomination was confirmed, and in the latter part of January, 1888, he entered upon the discharge of his new duties.

In the house of representatives and in the senate Mr. Lamar was not a frequent speaker, but whatever he said was attentively listened to, for his utterances always gave evidence of deep thought and careful preparation. He was a graceful and forcible speaker, but never understood or attempted to employ the artifices of the professional orator. With all his absentmindedness and love of hobbies the associate justice was a man of remarkably good judgment, and his ability to quickly read the character of a new acquaintance was almost marvellous. Secretary Vilas once said of him:

"Lamar is a man of magnificent surprises. I did not know him until we met in the cabinet, and during the past two years I have been very intimate with him. I think I have never met any man whose intellect has grown upon me overwhelming as has Lamar's. At times he has consulted with me about matters of public policy which only the decision of a question of law could settle.

"Once he had a most important decision to make. He had not written it, for I believe he does not write his decisions until the last minute, but he had the whole matter revolving in his mind. He began at the beginning and stated the facts. Such a faculty of clear, limpid statement is seldom met. I think in my time no man I have known has possessed it so well as Mr. Lamar unless it was the late Matt Carpenter, of Wisconsin. Then he began to unfold the principles of law which he thought applicable. As his mind rolled on from position to position it was with a ponderous, majestic yet ever delicate and sensitive movement that was simply wonderful.

"I said to myself, this man may not be able to quote the exact section of the law or the particular page of the reported decision, but he has a mind thoroughly imbued with legal principles and magnificently disciplined. Without making invalid comparisons it is my judgment that Mr. Lamar will add strength and adornment to the supreme bench. I believe he possesses some qualifications that the bench needs, and as the years go on the wisdom of his appointment will establish itself far above the reach of criticism."

Justice Lamar was twice married. His first wife was a cousin of Longstreet, the famous Confederate general. She died early in January, 1888, leaving one son and three daughters, one of whom, Miss Jennie, made her debut in 1886 and soon became a great social favorite at the national capital.

Two years after the death of his first wife Mr. Lamar married Mrs. William S. Holt, the widow of a well known Georgia judge. The ceremony was performed in Macon, Ga., Jan. 5, 1887. Mrs. Holt had a fine mansion and was quite wealthy.

In April, 1892, Justice Lamar was stricken down in Washington with hemorrhages of the lungs, complicated by symptoms of Bright's disease. He had occasional rashes at intervals of a few months, until exhausted nature succumbed to the strain.

It is said that Mr. Lamar was a more voracious reader than any public man who has been seen in Washington since the civil war. To this propensity was attributed most of his absentmindedness.

NO HOPE FOR HARPER.

The Bank Wrecker Must Serve Out His Time in the Penitentiary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Edward L. Harper, bank wrecker, ex-president of the Fidelity National bank, of Cincinnati, and convict in the Ohio penitentiary, has been denied a pardon by President Harrison. Harper was convicted of a violation of United States banking laws and sentenced on Dec. 12, 1887, in the United States district court for the Southern district of Ohio, to ten years imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus.

Prominent men from Ohio wrote letters to the attorney general and the president asking that he be pardoned, or that his sentence be commuted to prevent his death in prison. Favorable action was expected at a time when Harper was dangerously ill. His condition improved, however, and at the instance of Attorney General Miller a medical examination of his case was made. The result of their inspection and what President Harrison thought of it is embodied in the following, written on the back of Harper's application for executive clemency:

The recent examinations by surgeons selected by the attorney general shows that the prisoner is less dangerously sick than appeared from previous reports. His term expires in April, as I understand, and, in view of these facts, I do not think any interference by me is necessary.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

Famous Editor Gone.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 24.—At noon Sunday La Placide Canonge, one of the editors of the New Orleans Bee and the Nestor of the press of this city, died of grippe. His career was one of remarkable brilliancy. He founded and edited a number of newspapers, wrote much for the press of Paris, and put on the stage more than a dozen plays early in the seventies. He managed a season of French opera in New Orleans with great success. He was appointed an officer of the Academy by the French government in 1885, as a mark of recognition for his literary efforts and constant labor for the perpetuation of the French language in Louisiana.

Steamship Lines to Consolidate.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 24.—It is reported that negotiations are being made for the consolidation of all steamship lines running between Boston and the lower provinces under one management, which will erect and operate many large hotels in connection with the steamers. If the scheme carries the Canada Atlantic, the Yarmouth, the International and the Boston, Halifax and Prince Edward lines will be absorbed in one steamship and railway service.

Farmer's Misfortune.

MARYLAND, O., Jan. 24.—Henry Kemy, fifty-five, a farmer, while walking to his home east of this city late Saturday night, was knocked down by a sled and his leg broken. He lay in the snow three hours and would have been frozen to death had it not been that he wore two complete suits of clothes. When finally discovered a man whose name can not be learned refused to allow the injured man to be taken into his house.

Three Deaths in Four Days.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Jan. 24.—Thursday last Mrs. Susan Fellows, seventy-three years old, was found dead in bed of heart disease; at 1 o'clock yesterday morning her son Ed died of lung fever, and at 7 a. m. the father and husband, John Fellows, also died—three deaths in four days in the same family.

Fatal Fire.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 24.—John Malone and William McCarthy were burned to death yesterday at Patterson's creek. An old lady whose name is unknown, was so badly burned that she may die.

The three people were in a house when the fire broke out. The old lady was upstairs and the two women were in the kitchen. While trying to get the old lady out of the house the walls caved in, and they were almost instantly killed.

Will Lose Both Limbs.

MIAMI, O., Jan. 24.—Frank Mahon, a Big Four brakeman on northbound freight No. 61, met with a fatal accident near here yesterday. In attempting to jump from one car to another he slipped and fell between the cars to the track below. When picked up by his fellow trainmen a few minutes later, his legs were found to be so badly mangled below the knee that amputation will be necessary. His recovery is doubtful.

"I said to myself, this man may not be able to quote the exact section of the law or the particular page of the reported decision, but he has a mind thoroughly imbued with legal principles and magnificently disciplined. Without making invalid comparisons it is my judgment that Mr. Lamar will add strength and adornment to the supreme bench. I believe he possesses some qualifications that the bench needs, and as the years go on the wisdom of his appointment will establish itself far above the reach of criticism."

Rogue from Justice Returns.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 24.—Thomas Ambrose, the clerk of the United States courts who fled from Cincinnati twelve years ago while on trial for perjury in obtaining money from the government on false entries, returned yesterday and surrendered himself to the authorities, and was released on $5,000 bail. It is understood that a compromise with the government will be made.

Blaine Resting Easily.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—At 8 o'clock this morning it was stated at the Blaine mansion that the patient was resting comfortably and that there was no change in his condition.

NOTED DIVINE DEAD.

Budden Demise of Bishop Phillips Brooks, of Boston.

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—Bishop Phillips Brooks died at his residence, 233 Clarendon street, at 6:30 yesterday morning of heart failure, brought on by a fit of coughing. The death was entirely unexpected. He was taken ill Thursday with sore throat, but nothing serious showed itself until Sunday evening. Dr. H. Beach, his physician, discovered then diphtheritic symptoms, and considered a consultation advisable and called in Dr. R. H. Fitz.

At this time nothing serious was anticipated and Dr. Fitz remained only a short time. Dr. Beach was with the bishop the entire night. About 6:30 o'clock the patient was seized with a coughing spasm, which lasted for a few moments and his heart ceased to beat. Dr. Beach said that death was caused from heart failure and not from diphtheria. No diphtheritic membrane was discovered by a superficial examination.

Bishop Brooks preached his last sermon at the Church of the Good Shepard on Cortez street, last Tuesday evening.

BISHOP PHILLIPS BROOKS.

Phillips Brooks was born Dec. 13, 1835. His boyhood was passed partly in Boston and partly in Andover. He graduated at Harvard in 1855, studied theology in the seminary at Alexandria, Va., was ordained in 1859 and became rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Advent, Philadelphia, a comparatively obscure charge. There three years, after he became rector of the Holy Church of the Trinity, one of the largest and most fashionable churches in Philadelphia. He remained there several years, and in 1869 became rector of Trinity church, Boston. About a year ago he was consecrated bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts, succeeding the late Benjamin Henry Pendleton.

While he was pastor of Trinity church Dr. Brooks declined many calls elsewhere—a professorship in Harvard and the office of assistant bishop of Pennsylvania, to which he was elected in 1866. In his Boston parish he exerted a powerful influence for good, especially over the young men. Bishop Brooks was one of the most brilliant pulpit orators of the Protestant Episcopal church, and had a more rapid delivery than any clergyman in the country. He was noted for his "low church" views, and preached in the churches of other denominations than his own. Bishop Brooks published "Lectures on Preaching," delivered before the Yale divinity school (New York, 1877); "Sermons" (1878 and 1881), and "Baptism and Confirmation."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

AN OLD MAN MURDERS HIS WIFE AND THEN SHOOTS HIMSELF.

MARIETTA, O., Jan. 24.—This city is in a great state of excitement caused by a terrible double tragedy. Sunday night, at about 7:30 o'clock, at his farm on Little Muskingum creek, four miles east of this city, John Nicholas Haas killed his wife and then made way with himself. Haas was an old man fully seventy-five years of age, and his murdered wife was his third one.

His first wife died some years ago. From his second wife he secured a divorce and on Oct. 22 last, he was married to Mrs. Mary G. Lankford who, though several years his junior, was well along in years. His last matrimonial venture has not been a happy one. Sunday evening he had a quarrel with his wife, and in a fit of anger he carried out what had, so it seems, been his intention for some days past. With a large knife he stabbed her to the heart several times, killing her almost instantly. He at once left the house and going to his children's home found his daughter there, all the rest being at church. He told her that he had killed his wife and that he was going back to kill himself.

He begged her not to do it, but he started back. She at once started for the church to raise the alarm, but had not gone very far when she heard the report of a gun. Finally securing help she went to the house and found that the old man had made his assertion good. He had placed the muzzle of a gun to his mouth and pulled the trigger with his foot. Almost the entire top of his head was blown off. Death must have been instantaneous. Word was brought to this city and the coroner, sheriff and marshal went to the scene.

DUG OVER THREE THOUSAND GRAVES.

WOOSTER, O., Jan. 24.—Philip Fisher, seventy-three, the sexton of the Oak Hill cemetery, Wooster, was buried yesterday. He was a grave-digger for over forty years, and during that period dug over three thousand graves. From 1875 to 1890 he dug every one in the cemetery but two. He knew the name of the body in every grave in the cemetery, whether marked with a headstone or not, and could take a person to any grave without looking at the plot for the name.

Canada's Coming Governor.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—It is stated that the Earl of Aberdeen will succeed to the governorship of Canada next June.

STORMY SESSION IN THE HOUSE.

After a Long Discussion the Quarantine Bill is Passed—Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill Discussed—Nothing Done in the Senate—A Vote on the Anti-Option Bill Will Be Taken Today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—There have been many stormy and confused sessions of the house, but they have generally been held when a matter of political or personal interest has been at stake. Rarely has a more boisterous meeting been held over a non-partisan and non-personal measure than that which occurred yesterday. Members were at cross purposes over the quarantine bill. Its most earnest supporters believed that it did not go far enough; and while they acquiesced in some of the amendments made by the New York members, they did so under a protest and in the belief that if they did not do so the measure would meet a lingering death by filibustering. After many parliamentary wrangles the bill was finally passed.

And then another snag was struck, and this time it was placed in the channel by the Pennsylvania members. It laid in the course of the New York and New Jersey bridge bill. In its original form

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For Tennessee and Kentucky, fair; colder in western portions; westerly, shifting to southerly winds.

With hogs quoted at nearly eight cents a pound, pork and beans have almost reached the dignity of a luxury.

THE Lawrence County Republican remarks: "Cut off the pensions which are now being paid to the old soldiers of Lawrence County and every business man in the county will suffer from the effects of it." Perhaps the Republican will soon want Uncle Sam to pension the merchants.

DEMOCRATS are now certain of forty-two members of the next Senate, and have Montana, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Kansas to draw on for the two votes needed to give them control of that branch of Congress. We are certain of one in Wisconsin. The next Senate will be Democratic, notwithstanding all the schemes of the Republicans.

"KENTUCKY may pass the World's Fair appropriation bill in time to have the fact announced from the platform of the opening exercises," says the Cincinnati Tribune. The Tribune ought to keep better posted. The Legislature has passed two World's Fair bills. The first one didn't amount to much, but the other one was approved several days ago, and Kentucky will be there.

A LOT of nonsense has found its way in some papers that there is a rumor industriously circulated at Frankfort that the Governor will veto all municipal charters on the ground that they are local and special, therefore forbidden by the Constitution. There are six of these bills, and each applies to all the cities of the class for which it was gotten up. There is nothing local in a bill of that kind, and the talk about the Governor vetoing them on this ground is all bosh.

SOME of the more silly of the Republican organs are trying to delude their readers with intricate figures showing that "Cleveland is minority President." If anybody can get consolation out of this sort of thing, says the New York World, it is perhaps cruel to deprive him of it. Counting the million and odd votes for Weaver, the Democratic candidate did not have a majority of the popular vote. But a large proportion of the fusion vote was cast by Democrats, and all of the populist vote was a square revolt from and protest against Republicanism. If Mr. Cleveland will be a "minority President," what sort of minority must Harrison be in, who received nearly 400,000 fewer votes than the Democratic candidate?

PRESIDENT HARRISON has been "turned down" some more, this time by men in his own political family. The story goes—and it appeared in a Republican paper—that Chauncey Depew, who was responsible for the nomination of Harrison, tried to arrange a big banquet to President Harrison at the Madison Square Garden after March 4. "It was to fritter the close of the administration," said Depew. He proposed to have 2,000 covers at $20 each and invite all of the prominent Republicans and all of the manufacturers and the Republican Senators to this dinner. Quay and Clarkson would have none of it, and the matter has been abandoned. It seems that the Republicans are not dwelling together in peace and harmony.

WHEN Judge Lindsay was tendered a position on the Interstate Commerce Commission a year or so ago by Harrison, the Courier-Journal gang couldn't find words enough hardly to express its high opinion of him and to praise the President for the excellent selection he had made. Now the same "gang" are resorting to underhand tricks and despicable methods to defeat the Judge for U. S. Senator. They have suddenly discovered that he is a "corporation" lawyer and in order to blazon this over the State their willing tool at Frankfort concocted a story about two farmer members of the Legislature almost coming to blows in a dispute over the alleged point. The tactics of the "gang" are not calculated to raise it any in the esteem of the honest Democracy of the State, and their underhand methods will not injure Judge Lindsay's chances, either.

You will be pleased with our new system.

That Relief Fund.

The Call's suggestion to look after the poor and needy of Maysville was gallantly taken up by the DAILY BULLETIN, and through the energetic efforts of that paper a handsome subscription of money, coal and other necessary articles was contributed. A committee was appointed who have been active in relieving the distressed, and we have been told by one of the committee that he was actually surprised at the large number of worthy people who were objects of charity, and that had not the committee come to their aid when it did not suffer would have resulted.

All honor to the generous people who contributed, to the committee who so wisely dispensed the charities and to the BULLETIN for the important part it took in the matter.—Sunday Morning Call.

A week ago last Sunday Rev. D. P. Holt, pastor of the M. E. Church, in his morning sermon, referred to the suffering among the poorer classes. Dr. G. M. Williams was in the audience and expected that a collection would be taken up at the close of the discourse. No collection, however, was taken. In the afternoon Dr. Williams and some others were at the BULLETIN office. He referred to the sermon, and the result of the conversation that followed was the starting of the fund by the BULLETIN for the relief of the destitute. The suggestion of the Call was in the right direction; then came the sermon and then the fund.

Wonders of That Electric Meter.

Says the Winchester Sun: "The possibilities of the McNeil-Tinder electric meter were forcibly illustrated a few days ago at the factory. Numbered wheels register the impulses. One wheel will record ten impulses; two will record one hundred, and three one thousand, and so on.

In practice it was found that four wheels would be sufficient to make a six-months record, and the addition of another wheel, making five in all, would suffice for a record of five years. Continuing the calculation it was found that a machine with nine wheels, occupying a space two inches square, would register one billion impulses six minutes apart.

Thus, if one of these machines had been set up for Adam in the Garden of Eden, and had been working continually ever since—ten impulses an hour—it would yet have five thousand years to run before its capacity could be exhausted."

Mr. Bierley's Invention.

Speaking of the illuminated sign recently patented by J. H. Bierley, the Lexington Transcript says: "It consists of ten sections or transparent letters, each lighted on the inside by incandescent electric lights. The word thus spelled out is r-e-s-t-a-u-r-a-n-t, which as the letters are illuminated one at a time out to the end, then extinguished and the process begin over again, produces a startling effect and is bound to attract attention. Each electric light will be colored red, white, blue, etc., which will add greatly to the effect. The device is simple. An ingenious piece of clockwork moves a rotary commutator which, connected by electric wires, lights each incandescent lamp at a time and extinguishes them automatically when the word is spelled out to the end. Mr. Bierley thinks he has a fortune in his invention."

New Appellate Districts.

A bill is pending in the Legislature to re-district the State into Appellate districts. Mason County is placed in the Sixth district along with Boone, Campbell, Kenton, Grant, Harrison, Pendleton, Bracken, Robertson, Nicholas, Fleming, Lewis, Greenup, Carter and Rowan. The bill provides that the election of Judges shall be held at the regular elections in the districts and every eight years thereafter as follows: In the First, Second, Fourth and Sixth, in 1894, the Judge then elected in the First district to succeed the present Judge in the Fourth district; in the Fifth district, in 1896, to succeed the present Judge in the Second; in the Third, in 1898, to succeed the present Judge from the Third; in the Seventh, in 1900, to succeed the Judge elected from the present First district.

Y. M. C. A.

A business meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Sunday school room of the Church of the Nativity. Every member is urged to be present, as matters of importance will be considered.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

Resisting the Pump.

[St. Louis Republic Washington Special.] A story is told of Congressman W. C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, apropos of his recent visit here to illustrate with what little success the local writers meet in their efforts to "pump" distinguished callers at the Cleveland residence. After Mr. Breckinridge emerged from Mr. Cleveland's house he was asked if he could tell who would be members of the next Cabinet. "Well," said the silver-tongued orator, "I am like a certain man who attended a wedding down in Kentucky. When the minister asked: 'Who gives this woman away?' some fellow way back in the church said in a low voice: 'I could, but I'll be darned if I do.' Now, that's the way I stand on the Cabinet."

River News.

The Congo is said to be in a fine ice harbor at Concord.

There are sixteen boats in the mouth of the Little Kanawha.

There were 3,400 barrels of molasses on the wrecked Guiding Star.

In years past the ice has gone out without much damage, and history may repeat itself this year. Let us hope so.

From 600,000 to 1,000,000 bushels of coal is loaded in barges in the Kanawha, and most of it is liable to be lost when the ice runs out.

The Ohio river packets, above the mouth of the Kentucky, handled over 4,000,000 passengers last year with the loss of only two lives.

Railway News.

The gross earnings of the railroads of this country last year are estimated at over $1,200,000,000.

During the year 1892 the L. and N. earned $20,757,161, as against $19,000,000 in 1891. This was a larger sum by $5,000,000 than any other company in the South earned.

The latest railroad project in West Virginia is now maturing. The road is to run from Hendricks, W. Va., to the Chesapeake and Ohio, in the county of Greenbrier. This is said to be the least expensive route across the mountains.

THE MARKETS.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE CINCINNATI TOBACCO MARKET.

The continued cold weather during the previous week had a favorable effect on the offerings, which were comparatively light. The same can be said in regard to the receipts. Business during the week has been very satisfactory to all concerned, there being a firm, active market with an improved demand for all grades. In old the commoner and low grades of trash and lugs are now becoming scarce article, as is shown by the small number appearing on sale, which are actively sought after and sell at outside figures. Common tobacco and good medium were in active request with quotations some higher than last week, and sales were accepted with satisfaction. There was an improvement in both the demand and prices for good leaf, and holders were selling this kind more freely. The number of hogsheads on sale is, however, light.

In the offering of new were small. There was, though, a firm market, and prices realized in all grades are giving general satisfaction. Medium and good leaf was active at full prices. For common trash, lugs and common leaf there is a good steady demand, and full figures received.

A HANDSOME CONTRIBUTION.

Mr. S. N. Meyer Adds $35 to the Relief Fund—List Since Last Report.

The Relief Committee is in receipt of the following, which speaks for itself:

METROPOLITAN HOTEL, WASHINGTON, D. C.,
January 22, 1893.

W. La Rue Thomas, Esq.—President Relief Fund, Mayville, Ky.—Dear Sir: Inclosed find my check for $35, payable to you for the benefit of the poor of Mayville, Ky.; and accept our deep regret of the suffering of our poor people, by Mrs. Meyer and myself. With kind regards, I remain yours truly, S. N. MEYER.

This is the handsomest contribution yet made to the relief fund, and it gives the BULLETIN pleasure to make a note of it.

Following is a list of contributions since last report:

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Meyer	$35.00
George Reynolds	1.00
G. W. Sulzer	1.00
Bruce Henry	25
James H. Bruce	25
Duke Blerley's savings bank	50
Total	$38.00
Mrs. Ben Poynts, bed clothes
Cash previously reported	$347.40
Grand total	$385.40

The pastors of some of the churches did not understand that a collection was to be taken last Sunday for the fund, and this accounts for the fact that nothing was reported from these churches.

Household Hints.

Lemons may be kept for quite a considerable length of time in perfectly cold water, but they must be kept in an open jar, not a closed one, and at the same time in cold place. Watch carefully and change the water every day.

A nice dish can be made of celery by stewing it till tender. Then pour over it a half pint of cream. After you have put the celery into a baking dish cover it with bread crumbs and little bits of butter and bake about twenty minutes.

Javello water, used for turning white the dirtiest linen and removing stains, is composed of bicarbonate of soda, four pounds, chloroform, one pound. Put the soda into a kettle over the fire, add one gallon of boiling water, let it boil from ten to fifteen minutes, then stir in the chloride of lime, avoiding lumps. Use when cold. This is good for removing fruit stains from white goods.

County Court.

George T. Wood, John C. Pecor and Power & Reynolds were each granted license to retail spirituous and vinous liquors.

C. Stiles of Germantown was granted tavern license with Isaac Woodward as surety.

John N. Thomas Co. were granted license to sell spirituous liquors.

Omar Dodson was granted license to sell spirituous and vinous liquors.

G. S. Judd was appointed administrator of the estate of George W. Lloyd, deceased, with C. H. White as surety.

T. C. Power was granted a renewal of his certificate as a pharmacist.

Fristoe-Daniels.

Mr. D. O. Fristoe, of Peoria, Ill., and Miss M. B. Daniels, of this city, were quietly married at 9:30 o'clock this morning, in the parlors of Rev. J. B. Glorieux, the venerable pastor of St. Patrick's Church officiating. Messrs. W. A. Cole and Thomas Cummins acted as ushers. The bride wore a neat traveling costume of navy-blue broadcloth with light blue trimmings. The newly wedded left on the 10:15 train, for their future home in Peoria. The bride is a young lady of most estimable character, who has many friends in this city, while the groom is an industrious and worthy citizen of Peoria.

A Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Alfred Beuley desires to return thanks, through the BULLETIN, to Miss Sallie Burrows, Mr. G. W. Geisel and other members of the M. E. Church, South, for a donation of groceries and money they gave her recently. Also to Mr. Robert Hoesch for a donation of dry goods.

The Ladies.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies use the may California liquid laxative Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, make it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of package.

BERNARD KAMP, of Cincinnati, was given judgment Monday for $7,000 damages against the well known L. Schreiber & Sons' Architectural Iron Company. Kamp was a workman for the company, and was injured last summer by a heavy mass of iron falling upon his leg, making an amputation necessary.

THE Lawrence (Kansas) World says that a Sunday school teacher in that city asked her class of boys what a boy should do to go to heaven. No one answered until a little Irish boy at the bottom of the class held up his hand. "Well, sir, what must a boy do to go to heaven?" said the teacher. "He must die," answered Patsy.

A good Johnstown young man called on a lady the other evening. After talking awhile he asked her if she would object to his offering up a prayer. She did not. The young man prayed fervently for fifteen minutes. He asked the Lord to bring the lady to that frame of mind that she would accept him in wedlock. When he concluded the lady was gone and she has since refused to have anything to do with him.—Exchange.

MR. F. W. MINDORF, business manager of Wilfred Clarke Company, was in the city yesterday making arrangements for the appearance of the comedy "Tit for Tat," at the opera house Monday, January 30th. A beautiful souvenir will be presented to each lady present. Do not miss it; 250 laughs in 250 minutes. Popular prices.

COLONEL J. V. COCKRELL, Congressman-elect from the "Jumbo" district of Texas, was wounded nearly thirty years ago in a fight between Federals and Confederates in Southwest Missouri. One day recently he called on a surgeon and complained of a "rising" in his back. The surgeon made an incision with his lancet and a big minie ball slipped out.

THE entertainment given last night at the opera house by the Sweeney, Alvid & Goetze company was one of the best minstrel performances ever seen in Mayville. The proprietors do not claim that their company is the best on the road, but they do claim to give their patrons an enjoyable entertainment, and they make it a point to carry out all they promise. The band and orchestra are composed of excellent musicians, and add greatly to an organization that is strong in every other way. The vocal solos were so good that the audience recalled every singer. The comedians got off many good things that brought down the house, and the sham boxing contest was so ridiculous that the people almost hurt themselves laughing at it. It was good throughout, and the audience left well pleased.

DEATH LIST GROWING

Six More Victims of the Wann Disaster.

TWENTY-ONE ALREADY DEAD.

It is quite certain that before the end of the week the death roll will include at least thirty names—all those seriously burned will probably die.

ALTON, Ills., Jan. 24.—The death list as a result of the wreck and oil explosion at Wann station, on the Big Four road, Saturday, is gradually growing in length, and it is quite certain that before the end of the week the necrological roll will include at least thirty names. The physicians say that all of those seriously burned will probably die. Six more deaths are announced, as follows:

Assessor J. N. Murray, of Upper Alton.

Charles Halter, of Alton Junction. Thomas Houlihan, of East St. Louis. Henry Weigant, of Wann.

William Edwards, of Alton.

George Rolloff, of Upper Alton.

The total is now twenty-one.

Victims of the explosion not yet dead, but sure to die are:

James Herman, Jr., of Alton.

William Richardson, of Alton Junction.

David Richardson, of Alton Junction.

John Fretz, of Edwardsville Crossing.

Herman Esteke, of Alton.

George Staples, of Alton.

A. E. Frazier, a tramp.

Hamilton Valentine, of Alton Junction.

Otto Hageman, of Alton.

John Burks, of Fosterburg.

John Henry, Jr., of Wann.

John Philbrick, of Wann.

A son of Charles Herman, of Wann.

Thomas Williams, of Upper Alton.

J. W. Montgomery, of Atlanta, Ills.

A number of those whose injuries were at first reported slight are developing alarming features, resulting from lack of prompt medical treatment, when all the doctors were busy with the more severely stricken. A man from Wann, named Dunas, has been missing since Saturday and search for his body has been instituted.

The full outburst of sorrow is just beginning to be manifested, as the people realize at the graves of the loved relatives and friends the awful significance of their bereavement.

Coroner Kinder was busy yesterday with two juries impaneled, and as fast as the verdicts were rendered the bodies were turned over for burial.

BIG BANK FAILURE.

The Capital National, of Lincoln, Neb., closed.

LINCOLN, Jan. 24.—The Capital National bank, of Lincoln, has failed, and the state treasurer is caught for $250,000. The failure is a bad one, the deposits amounting to about $265,000, including the state funds, which are protected by the treasurer by bonds. The capital stock of $350,000 is all paid up.

Cashier Ontcott states that the assets will protect the depositors, but his claims are not believed.

The Capital National bank succeeded the old Marsh Harvester bank, which failed eight years ago. President Mosher was connected with the old institution, and was sponsor for the rejuvenated institution. The officers of the bank are: C. W. Mosher, president; J. Walsh, vice president; R. C. Outcott, cashier; directors, C. Mosher, C. H. Yales, H. J. Walsh, Henry Guerner and H. C. Phillips.

Lamp Chimney Works Burned.
ETWOOD, Ind., Jan. 24.—The George A. McBeth lamp chimney manufacturing plant, the largest of its kind in the world, took fire Saturday night by an explosion of pot No. 1, and the furnace and packing rooms were totally destroyed. The loss is $75,000; fully insured. Florence Walk, a molder, was burned to death. He was lost in the packing room and found five hours later, covered with timbers. Fred Hatton, Lawrence Daily, Ed Redembaugh and Fred Rheinhardt narrowly escaped. A hole was cut through a wall through which they emerged. Five hundred men are thrown out of work by the fire. The factory will be immediately rebuilt, and it will again be running within two months.

Accident in a Mine.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The wall of a shaft in the colliery at Pont-Y-Pridd, near Aberdare, collapsed late yesterday afternoon, as the shafts were changing. Fifteen men were on their way up, and many were waiting below. Six of the fifteen making the ascent were killed instantly and the others were injured severely. Some ten men at the bottom of the shaft were injured also. Three more may die.

Death of Sister Olympia.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 24.—Sister Olympia died at St. Mary's of the Woods yesterday of pneumonia. She was one of the six sisters who came here in 1840 from France to found the Order of the Sisters of Providence, of which St. Mary's is the mother home of all these academy institutions in the United States.

Must Learn the Russian Language.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—General Gourko, governor general of Warsaw, has granted German employees in factories in Russian Poland one more year in which to learn the Russian language. In case they do not know the language in January, 1894, they will be expelled.

The Big Suit Begun.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 24.—The trial of the ex-Senator McDonald will begin yesterday in the Hamilton county circuit court on a change of venue from Indianapolis. The day was spent in impaneling the jury, which is composed of farmers.

Three New Cases and One Death.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Three new cases of typhus fever were developed yesterday. Charles Flebward, forty-four years old, died of the disease at the Riverside hospital.

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.
